A CITY ON THE MOVE BERLIN

TEMPELHOF SCHÖNEBERG

From Knights Templar land to airport, and today Europe's largest urban park a district that keeps reinventing its purpose.

MITTE

The heart that reveals itself slowly hidden courtyards with tiles an architect designed behind the Kaiser's back,

THINGS TO DO IN BERLIN

FRIEDRICHSHAIN KREUZBERG

Color, street art, and energy that's contagious canals, murals that change weekly.

PANKOW

The Berlin you savor slowly a water tower that once appeared on the district's coat of arms, and a square that gave its name back to the artist who lived there.

CHARLOTTENBURG WILMERSDORF

Elegance and architecture an entire district named after a queen who never knew it, and the boulevard where Berlin dresses its best.

TREPTOW KÖPENICK

Berlin's largest district 70% water and forest, the city's biggest lake, and the true story of a shoemaker who 'stole' an entire town hall.

SPANDAU

The oldest Berlin of them all a building over 800 years old, a Renaissance citadel, and streets that existed before the city center itself.

MARZAHN HELLERSDORF

A piece of Beijing almost no one knows about yet a Chinese garden that traveled in 100 shipping containers, along with the craftsmen who built it.

STEGLITZ ZEHENDORF

Forests, lakes, and eight villages that were once independent the side of Berlin that feels greener and slower.

LICHTENBERG

Authentic and creative, off the usual tourist path Europe's largest zoo by area, and an Asian market few Berliners even know about.

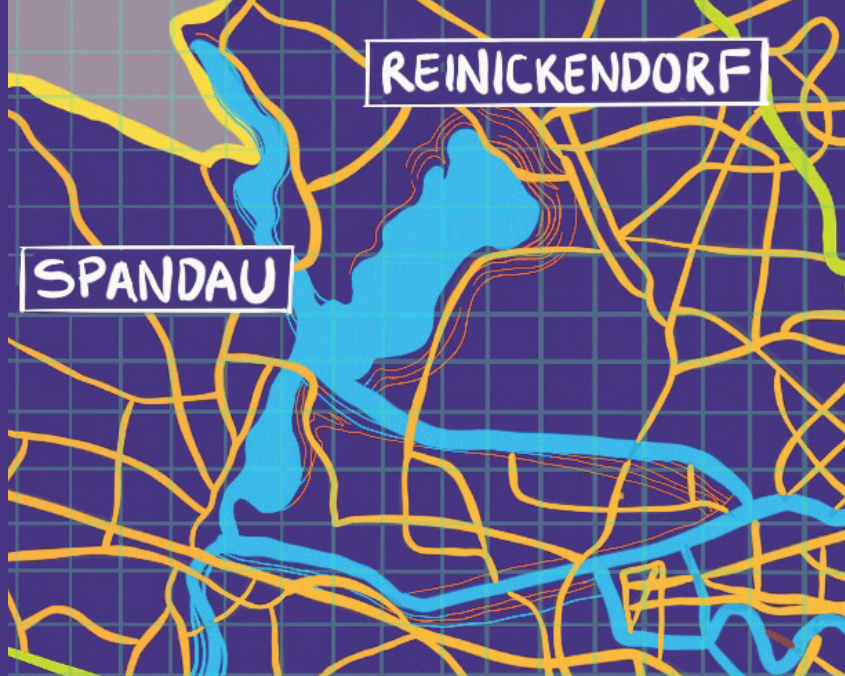

NEUKÖLLN

Street food, urban art, and constant reinvention a gravel pit that became 'the Sanssouci of Neukölln,' a neighborhood with its own rhythm.

REINICKENDORF

Berlin's greenest, quietest side a tree nearly 900 years old, older than the city itself, and lakes made for unwinding.
